4) Travel eligibility

It is your sole responsibility to find out whether a visa is required to visit another country before you travel. Depending upon your nationality and personal history, you may be eligible to apply for a US travel authorization through the Electronic System for Travel Authorization, also known as ESTA, when visiting the USA. To obtain a travel authorization you must provide certain details about yourself, your passport and your reason for visiting the country.

Our website provides an enhanced online application form with all the questions and corresponding help text required to submit a complete application for a US travel authorization. Part of our specialized service is to review the answers you provide, along with your information, before we process and submit the application on your behalf. If we need any additional information or notice anything that may jeopardize your application, we will contact you by email to clarify. Please note that any verification of information will delay the processing period.

Once we have ascertained that the information you have provided is valid and complete, we submit your application to the US Electronic System for Travel Authorization for approval. If for any reason your application cannot be submitted for processing, we will inform you and refund your payment in full.

To receive a response to your application can take up to 72 hours. However, we advise all travelers to begin the application process as soon as possible, and at least 7 days before your departure in order to allow time for any unforeseen delays or problems.

By using our website and services you consent to a 3rd party reviewing and submitting the travel authorization on your behalf via the Electronic System for Travel Authorization.

5) What happens if the application for a travel authorization is denied

If for any reason we are unable to process your application, you have the option to:

1. Submit a new application using a different service provider
2. Visit the US government website directly and submit a new application yourself

The final decision to approve or reject any application for a travel authorization lies entirely with the US government. If your application is denied, we recommend that you get in touch with the local US embassy or consulate, and they will advise you of the best way to apply for a standard visitor visa. This process will take longer than a regular travel authorization application, so time should be allowed for possible delays.

In exceptional circumstances, the US government may choose to withdraw the approval for an already issued travel authorization. The status of the travel authorization is changed from "Approved" to "Not Authorized". Even if the application is initially approved, it is only an authorization to travel. It does not guarantee entry into the US. The final decision lies with the Customs and Immigration Officer when you arrive at the port of entry.

We cannot take responsibility for any losses related to a change of application status. All travelers are strongly recommend to verify their approval status before purchasing airlines tickets and planning their journey to the US.
